

2021 LCMA Board of Directors Candidates

David Allen:

I would like to serve my community as an LCMA board member to help insure that Lowry progresses in a measured, well-conceived manner, while remaining true to the vision of it's founders....that being to establish a unique and model Denver community that will withstand the test of time. We must work TOGETHER to resolve our challenges, and the LCMA must be highly transparent, available, and ever responsive to Lowry residents. My efforts will be in that regard.

Robin Ault (incumbent):

I have lived in Lowry for eighteen years and served on the LCMA Board and the Lowry Design Review Committee for three years. Both of my children attended Lowry Elementary, Hill Middle School, and George Washington High School and my wife is a Lowry business owner. I am a licensed architect and began my career as a designer in the Denver architecture firm of Fentress Architects in 1995 and have led the designs of national and international design competitions and been the lead project designer for several award-winning buildings. I am a visiting critic and student mentor to the University of Colorado, College of Architecture and Planning and a Design Review Board Member for the Fitzsimons Redevelopment Authority. Outside the office, I enjoy spending time with my family, skiing in the Rocky Mountains, and attending hundreds of youth soccer games.

Jessie Johnson (incumbent):

I have served on the LCMA Board for the past three years. My husband and I really like Lowry as it has been a great community for our four kids who enjoy the parks, play up and down the streets with our neighbors, and eat great food. I served for two years on the LCMA's Buildings and Grounds Committee and it was great to see how so many LCMA community members are investing in their properties to continue to make Lowry such a special place to live and work. A year ago, I was appointed as chair to the Lowry Design Review Committee. As a licensed Architect who has been designing commercial architecture for close to twenty years, this committee suits my strengths.

Carla McConnell:

Through service on the Ft. Marcy HOA, I learned about the range of issues facing any community manager and will support Lowry Executive Director, Mary Carr, in her efforts to support Lowry. My initial specific interest will be in sustaining and enhancing our valuable street tree canopy which so enhances our walkable community. It's not easy being a tree in Colorado. I would like to continue to serve on the Lowry Design Review Committee (LDRC), but also to help with formulating long range projects involving refreshment or enhancement of areas that after nearly 30 years require renewal. I look forward to serving everyone in Lowry through an LCMA Board position.

Zach Myhra (incumbent):

I've proudly served on the LCMA Board of Directors for the past four years. During that same time, I've also served on the LCMA Buildings and Grounds Committee. I've enjoyed helping to support our owners' wonderful improvements throughout the community while protecting the value of our community shared amenities which my family and I regularly enjoy. We have lived in Denver since 2012 and have called Lowry home for the past six years.

Sherry Powe (incumbent):

The Lowry area is a beautiful vibrant community, and I would very much like to contribute as a continuing member of the LCMA Board of Directors. I am interested in being a voice for the commercial properties. I bring skills and professional experience that qualify me for Board service. I am Co-chair for 24 Hour Fitness's Women's Initiative for Leadership and Development (WILD). I spent seven years working for a non-profit organization developing internal organizational structures and building teams to support the organization's vision. I have 30+ years in Leadership and Management. I am skilled at turning failing or struggling clubs/stores into thriving and profitable businesses.

Bill Skewes (incumbent):

I have had the pleasure of living in Lowry for over fourteen years and serving on the LCMA Board for the past two. My wife and I moved to Lowry in 2007, a few months before our oldest son was born. We now have two sons and can't think of a better place to raise our family. One of my favorite things about Lowry is the small-town community feel it has even though we are within a major city. I work as a lobbyist and am a former practicing attorney, giving me valuable experience understanding state and local laws and working with different stakeholders. I have enjoyed my work on the Board, getting to know the Board and community members and ask for your support to serve another term.

John Wiberg:

I am a Denver native and resident of Lowry for 13 years. As a retired medical physician and retired military (Navy) I have a strong interest in civic affairs, health and safety. I currently am a Trustee of The Park People and a Board Member of the Denver City Club. I have ample free time to serve and carry out LCMA meetings and board work.

Katherine Williams:

I have spent most of my adult life volunteering in a variety of community service, from Sunday School through Girl Scouts. At this time, I run a nonprofit that helps Denver residents with transportation, and I serve as an elected official on the RTD Board of Directors. I think that I can bring a wealth of experience, contacts, and information to the organization that supports my neighborhood.
